

Home > Aetna Foundation > News > Aetna provides an "Oath"

Aetna provides an "Oath"

As part of its ongoing commitment to improving physician awareness of domestic violence, the Aetna Foundation provided financial support for a continuing medical education program presented by the Montgomery County Domestic Violence Health Care Collaborative November 2, 2000. "Oath", a one-act play written by a physician, was presented followed by a discussion of issues presented in the play. The discussion was led by Elizabeth Datner, MD, Assistant Professor of Emergency Medicine at the Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania. Over 60 physicians and health care professionals attended the performance and discussion.

L to R: Elizabeth Datner, MD, Assistant Professor of Emergency Medicine, Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania; Michael Cheikin, MD, play author and Medical Director of Chestnut Hill Rehabilitation Hospital; Joanne Rosenbaum, PA-C, play producer and Administrative Director of Chestnut Hill Health Care's Women's Center; Philip Benditt, MD, Medical Director, Aetna U.S.Healthcare.