THE SCIENTIFIC APPROACH TO HAIR GROWTH

Hair loss is a problem for many people, not least because it can bring about a significant change in appearance. In recent decades, a great deal of international scientific research has been conducted on ingredients that are promising in their ability to combat hair loss.

Based on the latest medical and cosmetic science and on its own research, Neofollics Hair Technology is developing practical solutions to make these effective ingredients available to everyone.

FORMULATED FOR OPTIMUM PERFORMANCE

Many hair growth products do not contain any proven effective ingredients, or only contain a low dosage of the proven ingredients, or they only contain a limited number of active ingredients.

For us, highly effective ingredients are the most important element of a hair growth treatment. Neofollics Hair Technology's products contain an extensive combination of ingredients which have been proven to be effective; moreover, they contain the most effective concentration of these ingredients. Additionally, we integrate various mechanisms of action into each product.

OUR HAIR LOSS TREATMENT

Our current line-up consists of a triple product approach to hair loss:

- Neofollics Tablets
- Neofollics Lotion
- Neofollics Shampoo & Conditioner

These products are perfect to use as standalone, but in combination, even better results can be expected.

Our products help both men and women who:

- suffer from general hair problems (thinning hair, hair loss, unhealthy and thin hair)
- suffer from hereditary hair loss (Alopecia Androgenetica)
- want to ensure that healthy hair is maintained and hair loss is prevented

WORKING MECHANISMS

Various biochemical processes play an important role in hair growth and hair loss. This means that stimulating hair growth and preventing hair loss should be actioned in different ways.

Our products are developed to have the following working mechanisms:

- Stimulation of hair growth
- Reduction of DHT in the scalp
- Improved scalp and hair follicles condition
- Improved hair growth through provision of the necessary building blocks
- Reduction of micro-inflammation, dandruff, itching and flaking
