

At-home bleaching reduces enamel strength

April 22, 2009 -- Teeth lost some enamel hardness after the application of several different at-home teeth-whitening products, according to a recent Ohio State University (OSU) study (Journal of Dentistry, March 2009, Vol. 37:3, pp. 185-190).

To read this and get access to all of the exclusive content on DrBicuspid.com create a free account or sign-in now.

MemberID or email address:

☐ No, I want a free membership.

☒ Yes, I have a password:

Sign In

What's this?

Forgot your password? | View our privacy policy.

About Us Advertising Cases Case Archives CE Conferences Connect
Contact Us Facebook Forums Home Jobs Links Media Kit More
Practice Management Privacy Policy Sign In Thought Leaders Topics Twitter
User Options Valuation Vendor Connect XML/RSS

Copyright © 2018 DrBicuspid.com. All Rights Reserved.