The Longitudinal Assessment for Pain Medicine (LA-PM) questions are proprietary information of the American Board of Anesthesiology (ABA) and are the ABA's copyrighted material. By registering for your board's LA-PM, you agree not to share, copy, create derivative works, or otherwise distribute the questions to any third party for profit without the ABA's explicit written consent. The LA-PM questions are the sole property of the ABA.

Diplomates of our co-sponsoring boards who are maintaining their Pain Medicine certification using the LA-PM are expected to participate in the assessment with the highest level of professionalism and integrity, and as such are required to answer their own LA-PM questions and not assist other diplomates in answering theirs or seek the assistance of others.

Diplomates of co-sponsoring boards found to have violated the copyright protection by engaging in the aforementioned activities, received or gave assistance in the answering of LA-PM questions, or in some other conduct or manner, will be subject to disciplinary actions by the ABA, which may include permanent disqualification from the LA-PM.
